Any subsistence fisherman who intends on selling, for cash, any portion of their subsistence finfish harvest in Norton Sound or Port Clarence must first obtain a Customary Trade Permit as outlined in 5 AAC 01.188.

In the Norton Sound-Port Clarence Area, a person who sells subsistence finfish harvest must:

- obtain a customary trade permit from the department before selling any subsistence harvest and must record any cash sale within 24-hours;
- return the customary trade permit to the department as prescribed by the department;
- display the customary trade permit upon request by a local representative of the department or a peace officer of the state.

Additionally, a person may not sell more than $500 total per household in a calendar year, the buyer may not resell the fish, and sale or purchase may occur only in the Norton Sound-Port Clarence Area.

Additionally, subsistence salmon permits are available online at www.adfg.alaska.gov/store. All Norton Sound subsistence permits are free, and all Alaska resident households are qualified to receive a permit. The department is encouraging everyone to get their permits online. If you are unable to get your permit online the department can issue a permit at the Nome office. Village residents can call the office at 1-800-560-2271 if they are unable to get their permit online.
